ACTIVITY

Making a hand of friendship

Give each student a piece of paper and ask them to trace around their hand. Explain that they are all going to make 'Hands of Friendship' to give to other people to encourage them to be good friends. Once all students have the outline of their hand ask them to choose five values of friendship and write one in each finger and the thumb. Students can decorate their hands to make them bright and colourful.

When completed, students can give someone 'a hand', either another student, their parents or a friend, to promote friendship.

ACTIVITY

Trace around each student's body or get students to trace each other.

Ask each student to write the qualities of a friend onto the body. Get them to try to write the qualities on the parts of the body that would be used, e.g. helping hands, caring heart, listening ears and smiling mouth.

The bodies can be displayed as a promotion of friendship in your school.
